No. _____

RESOLUTION

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, on July 17, 2013.

We agree to consider the Petition for Interjurisdictional Certification submitted by the United States District Court for the District of Puerto Rico. A writ of certification is issued to explore solely whether the Puerto Rico laws allow for the existence of private streets.

In light of this, petitioner, Dorado Municipality, is granted a term of thirty (30) days as of the notice of this resolution to submit a legal brief. This is to be done according to the provisions contained in Rules 26 and 33 of the Rules of this Court.

So agreed by the Court and certified by the Clerk of the Supreme Court. Associate Justice Madam Rodríguez-Rodríguez would deny, as it is her understanding that the Interjurisdictional Certification remedy is seeking an advisory opinion, given that our decision will not be vital to the solution that will be given to the controversy before the United States District Court for the District of Puerto Rico.
